He had obtained from Indian corn from 1800 to 2400 pounds of sugar to the acre The discussion of the paper revealed the fact that several members had obtained very indifferent results from the use of Prof Stewart's process, and that this process is by no means the only one by which sugar can be produced from sorghum cane There was much enthusiasm among members on the subject.

COURT MARTIAL

The Trial of Major Reno at Fort Meade

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

DEADWOOD Dec 4—The Reno court martial which has been sitting at Fort Meade since Saturday last, has examined about fifteen witnesses all of whose testimony was favorable to Reno in that, while admitting his inebriety he showed no particular malice towards Lieut Nicholson with whom he had an altercation in the officers club room on Oct 25th That night Reno was under the influence of liquor He struck Nicholson on the arm with a billiard cue, breaking the cue and Nicholson threw him on the floor Nicholson provoked the assault by saying he could whip Reno This was the extent of the trouble that night

On Aug 8 Reno while in the club room knocked out two lights of glass Federal officers testified that they had seen many worse things happen in the club room on different occasions

Post Trader Fanshaw testified that Reno and several others took supper at his house on Aug 31 and the accused was slightly under the influence of liquor but did not insult Fanshaw or wife

To day Miss Ella Sturgis daughter of the post commander testified that on the night of Nov 10th while sitting in the library she was startled by hearing some one tapping on the window and going there to see who it was her eyes met Reno's which frightened her nearly to death She saw Reno only a few seconds Any impression as that he would shoot her if I moved I thought he had hard feelings towards father Reno's face was pale and looked desperate

Gen Sturgis testified that he was called out of bed by his wife November 10th and going down stairs found both his wife and daughter badly frightened He went out but saw no one Reno is not on friendly terms with my family and had not been to my house for a month He was under arrest November 10th and down to this fact was prohibited from coming there

Reception of the Czar at Moscow

MOSCOW Dec 3—To day a deputation proceeded to Kremlin to congratulate his majesty upon his visit to Moscow Previous to the emperor's arrival in the hall of the audience the lord marshal gave the deputations news of the catastrophe of the previous evening His hearers appeared for a moment thunderstruck but immediately afterwards broke in to loud cheers at the emperor's escape The emperor appeared in St George's hall at noon and was presented by the municipal authorities with bread and salt when he spoke as follows

Gentlemen I am very glad to see you again remembering the loyal attachment which you evinced on the occasion of the sad event of April 4th Similar assurances then reached me from all parts You are already acquainted with the events of yesterday God has preserved me as well as those traveling with me and I am anxious only for the welfare of Russia I have placed myself in the hands of providence but sedition must be extirpated I appeal therefore to all right minded people to aid me in the eradication of this evil which has taken root in Russia. I address myself to parents and urge them to conduct their children in the paths of truth and righteousness in order that they may become not miscreants but useful men and good citizens

The Assassin's Plans

MOSCOW Dec 3—A person who was in the baggage train at the time of the explosion says that a baggage train of 14 carriages and two locomotives was dispatched half an hour before the train carrying the emperor but by fortunate chance the czar's train overtook the baggage train, passed and left it some distance behind The explosion attracted the police and a crowd of people who were loud in their expressions of horror Telegraphic communication was interrupted for a time owing to the posts having been thrown down by the explosion Two railway officials who were in the immediate vicinity were badly injured The perpetrators doubtless thought the czar was in the second train The public prosecutor and magistrate soon arrived A letter was found in the court yard of an empty house Concealed under the snow a wire connected with a battery in an out house from which passing train could easily be seen was found The house was bought in September by a young man who stated he was a citizen of Samara He had been observed digging in his cellar by his neighbors but disarmed suspicion by declaring that his reason for doing it was to obtain sand From this cellar was dug a passage way in which a train of powder was laid connecting with a mine under the railway More wires were found behind the wall paper It is supposed that several persons were engaged in the work

DISTRESSED IRELAND

Apathy of Sympathy—Precautions of the British Government, Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

DUBLIN Dec 2—The interest in the parish agitation remains unabated throughout Ireland. Public attention at present is being chiefly pointed to Parnell's Liverpool speech which is regarded as a direct and bold challenge to the English government to arrest him if they dare The speech being delivered in England Parnell would be tried by an English jury and an English judge. It is pointed out that Davitt Daly and Killen used a more seditious language but the use of such language is defended by Parnell's friends by reference to precedents in Irish history such as the measure taken in 1782 In government circles apparently but little importance is attached to the objection that it is necessary to assert the supremacy of the law by the arrest of these inciting their followers to deeds of violence The government believes Parnell's friends are working entirely for political purposes Their claims are out of question as the government cannot force landlords to give up their estates "Suppose," said a government official to a correspondent yesterday, "that the lands were given up to the people to morrow there would be a new race of landlords in a month—those having more acres than they needed would let the surplus to others Many would fail or sell out while others would buy up In a few years there would be as many landlords as now"

The present trouble is believed to be in the smallness of the majority of holdings which are not big enough to support the tenants The distress in the west of Ireland is not denied but the government hope and expect to meet the emergency by facilitating the work [illegible] and lending money to those [illegible] desirous of starting relief works. SARAH WINNEMUCCA'S SECOND LECTURE.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN]

SAN FRANCISCO Dec 4—Last night Sallie Winnemucca delivered her second lecture at Platt's Hall It was delivered in a forcible and emotional manner and contained many notable points She began her narrative with 1875 when Sam Parrish was agent She dwelt at length upon his kindness to "my people," how he kept faith built a school house and taught them to be good and honest On the 1st of January a school house having been built, Mrs Parrish wife of Charley Parrish was made head teacher, and Sarah assistant and in five months, said Sarah some of our children Indian children could spell words of two syllables Think of that She told how beloved was this agent to them all and how the council of her people thanked him for his labor and kindness She then, in the most feeling tones and language that won the sympathies of listeners, told how Parrish had informed them that orders had come from Washington to leave them and that another was to take his place The regret and pain her people experienced at this news and how they failed to understand why a good man and one who had done his best to improve the condition of the Indians and civilize them should be removed She made the same points, and a few others against Rinehart as before She told how he (Rinehart) told falsehoods, abused ill treated brutally treated deceived and cheated them in every way and how he insisted upon it that they should only deal at his stores She had made complaints against this man and had obtained no redress

She then described incidents which led to a portion of her people joining the hostile Bannocks These men decided rather to die in war than to be starved by Rinehart She spoke of her efforts to prevent them from going to war She did not think that all of her people should be deprived of their lands or be driven from home to starve because a few had been guilty The guilty alone should be punished The Chinese she said some times do fearful things and commit horrible murders, but you search for these men for two or three years until you catch them and when they are caught you punish them You don't attack all the Chinese who are with you No you let them live with you You take all untold of the earth to your bosom but the poor Indian who is born of the soil of your land and who has lived for generations on it is which the good God has given to them and you say he must be exterminated [The speaker was affected with deep passion and received with tremendous applause] The proverb says the big fish eat up the little fishes and we Indians are the little fish and [illegible] When we were poor in lands [illegible] [illegible] obtained by Capt Smith at Warm Springs [illegible] after ten years [illegible] in their own tongue and were [illegible] [illegible] the white [illegible] [illegible] the Indian [illegible] builders and civilized [illegible]

FRIDAY MORNING, DEC. 5, 1879

AGRICULTURE AND MANUFACTURE.

A writer on political economy, over ten years ago, told the people of England that the expansion of the iron trade would ultimately burn out the vitals of the country, meaning that the continued manufacture and exportation of that which cannot be replaced would at last be followed by impoverishment just as certainly as the saying of "Poor Richard" is true, that "always taking meal out of the barrel and never putting in, brings us surely to the bottom." R. P. Porter, of Chicago, a writer who ranks high as an authority upon politico economical matters in this country, takes up the subject in a contribution to America, a journal just started in New York, and reviews it in a very able manner. His article is somewhat in the same view with that from the Princeton Review, noticed in THE OREGONIAN last week, and shows that the tendency of the population of this country to drift toward the manufacturing centers is not a favorable indication for the future permanence and posperity of our industries. The progress of a nation, he claims, does not so much depend upon its accumulation, but upon the continuity of the processes and resources by which its wealth was won in the first place. It is said that Sicily, under the Romans, first was largely deteriorated by the perpetual exportation of corn, exhausting even very fertile soil. Ireland in the past suffered by the constant sending out of cattle and pigs with no back-current of commerce to restore all that their bones and flesh took out of the earth. Americans well know how less than a century of tobacco-growing completely exhausted the coast counties of Virginia and left the towns, mansions and churches that once flourished there buried in a forest of pine. In England the population in some of the manufacturing towns has increased under the stimulus of the demand for iron, and its manufactures at the rate of thirty and thirty-seven per cent in periods of ten years, while eight per cent. is the highest rate of increase in the agricultural districts in the decade ending 1861, and in some counties the population has actually decreased. But with this increase in the number of people engaged in manufacturing industries in England, conditions now have come about that make the error in unduly increasing these branches of industry at the expense of agricultural interests. Year by year Great Britain finds that every foreign country is becoming more and more capable of satisfying the demands of its own market in the manufacture of iron goods. Especially is this the case with the United States. The iron trade here has developed to such an extent that from now on we shall virtually supply our home markets. The unexpected demand for steel rails combined with the favorable decision for importers by Assistant Secretary French, will result in a slight increase in the importation of steel rails, but with new steel works going into operation in all sections of the country, England cannot hope long to find a market here for the products of her iron districts. But before deciding whether it is possible to decide whether the increasing magnitude of a trade is a benefit or a damage to a nation, it is necessary to consider carefully the quality of the thing bought and sold. A farm, however far pushed, will under proper cultivation continue forever to yield a crop. Mr. Porter therefore sees no danger then in the increasing exportation of raw material in the shape of food. But the exportation of the products of the mine, and of the factory, not only tends to take the population away from the acres of magnificent lands, but it sends abroad that which can never be replaced again. In 1860 less than one-quarter of the population of the United States lived in cities; now the towns contain upward of one-third. Here we see at once the extraordinary effects which the development of manufacturing has exercised upon the movements of our population. The rapid development of manufacturing in the western states, he is of the opinion, is not an unmixed good, but it should be borne in mind that the foundation of the prosperity of the west lies in its food-producing powers. There is such a thing as overdoing manufacturing, especially when efforts are made to secure the trade of foreign markets. The great aim of the west should be cheap food as well as cheap products of the mill and shop. Wheat raised in any part of the United States can be landed in Liverpool at four shillings a bushel, or thirty-six shillings a quarter. England with her land heavily handicapped can produce no cheaper food than that. A careful consideration of all the elements that enter into an inquiry of this kind,—climate, steam transportation by sea and land, together with the land question,—leads to the conclusion that it is out of the power of English agriculturalists to compete with the growers of wheat on the American continent. These and kindred questions are to day of more vital importance to the United States than the exportation of a few million dollars worth of manufactures to foreign ports. American manufactures can and will take care of the immense home trade.

It will, in the light of these facts and circumstances, appear how advantageous is the position of this northwest coast, which has such vast resources for producing that which is so certain to be always in demand, and which is shown to be receiving less attention in proportion in other parts of the world. The establishment of more manufactories in our state is to be encouraged, but Oregon should not forget that her great reliance is upon those products which her fertile soil so freely give to the industrious agriculturists.

THE GUILTY WITH THE INNOCENT.

After the army had brought the band of Utes, who committed the outrages at the White River Agency, to terms, the interior department set about trying to find out the members of the tribe who actually committed the murders, with a view to punishing them. This investigation has resulted just about as a trial in one of our justice's courts would, in which all the witnesses are Chinamen. Of course none but the Utes witnessed the tragedy; equally, of course, the actual murderers would not confess, and no very strong inducement could be held out to the rest of the gang to turn state's evidence. The result was that the investigators found a most surprising ignorance as to the massacre, among the witnesses whom they summoned. One of the first witnesses called who was believed to have been a prominent actor in the bloody work, declared that he had never heard of any trouble at White river. So the government has got to punish all or let all go free.

The change in the time for holding the state fair will be received with different degrees of favor by different classes of people. The first week in July will be as convenient a time perhaps as any other for farmers to attend, but it will not be possible to secure as good a representation of the products of agriculture as it would later in the season. Very early vegetables will be the only products of the year which will be matured. In the mechanical arts, of course, the exhibition can be made as good at one time as another, and the floral display will probably be vastly improved. Live stock, which has always constituted the leading feature, can also be shown to as good advantage as in October; and the speed contests, usually considered as the most attractive events of the occasion, instead of losing interest, will maintain their prominence. Altogether it appears to have been good judgment on the part of the managers to settle upon a time in the season when the probabilities are largely in favor of good weather. The fruits of Oregon cannot be made as large a part of the exhibition as they could in September or October,—in fact, the exhibition of most varieties will necessarily be small, and it has been suggested that the Pomological Society in Portland make arrangements to hold an annual exhibition, so that this important industry can be properly presented to the public.

The Oregon Farmer published in this city, refers editorially to the French or Kinney wheat, which, it says, is steadily gaining favor in the eyes of the millers. An unreasonable prejudice was at first created against it on account of a reddish cast pertaining to it, and it was consequently discriminated against from five to ten cents per cental. We assure the farming community that as a flour resultant grain, it has no superior, and whoever produces it next year will obtain full rates therefor in any market, as a large flouring mill is to be constructed in Portland, so that it will not be necessary to lean on local or tributary mills for a price, for Portland, the common center, will be its market ing place. We do not think it will be much sought for for foreign shipment, as it is not distinctly a white wheat, but its superiority as a flouring wheat is established to a certainty. We think this class of wheat might with much profit and propriety be introduced to the upper Columbia country, and we hope some enterprising farmer of that section will at once take the matter in hand and order some seed to be sent there for sowing.

The meeting in New York city of the joint legislative committees of New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Connecticut, to consider and report upon the alleged evils to the industrial classes wrought by leasing to contractors the labor of state prison convicts, is attracting much attention. It is generally conceded that the system, as practised, is detrimental to sundry branches of industry. On the other hand, it is the popular feeling that state prisons should be self-supporting, and experts testify that the subjection of state prison management to political influences is the great obstacle in the way of devising any self-supporting system other that the one complained of. The committees in session would confer an obligation on other states besides their own if they would give special attention to devising some means of placing state prisons beyond the influence of party politics.

There is but little probability that the proposed plan for harmonizing the rival democratic factions in New York will be successful in producing a hearty, earnest and effective reconciliation for the great national contest of 1880, unless the pacificators shall enlarge the sphere of their vision so as to embrace the whole country. The anti-Tilden democracy are by no means confined to the territorial limits of the Empire state. For reasons which it is needless to marshal here, the disfavor with which the renomination of Tilden is regarded throughout the union has become a positive, emphatic, implacable antagonism to both the men and his methods. No armistice which does not relegate Mr. Tilden to the privacy of Gramercy Park will prove acceptable to the unterrified democracy of the nation.

Men never grow too old to learn wisdom. It is said that Dan Voorhees is about to abandon the soft money foolishness and embrace the sensible financial views of Bayard and other democrats, whose heads have never been turned by the fiat money craze. Well, repentance at the eleventh hour is far better than conscienceless contumacy to the last.

It is said that the trade mark act, declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, was engineered through congress in 1877 by Senator Conkling who has an extensive patent law practice. Senator Bayard and A. S. Hewitt, of New York, both tried to defeat it at the time, taking the ground that it was unconstitutional.

People whose minds are too weak to distinguish between the report of a committee appointed by a convention of wool growers and an editorial in the New York Tribune, ought to move down the river, where fish is plentier. But brain food, where no brain is, would be useless.

Indian Commissioner Hayt, who takes a roseate view of the Indian problem, considers in his annual report that the savages are on the high road to civilization, and only need justices of the peace and the institution of matrimony to make them superior citizens.

Before the democrats wrangle too much about a presidential candidate, they had best strengthen up the party and conserve the leaders, so that a democratic nomination may be worth fighting for.

MAINE POLITICS.

A Cutting Letter from the Republicans—They Resolve to go to the Courts.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

AUGUSTA, Dec. 2.—When the final answer from the governor was received stating that no one could be permitted, under any circumstance, to inspect the returns of the election of senators and representatives, a long protest was forwarded to the governor and council by members elect, concluding as follows: Your honorable board will permit the undersigned to remark that they never founded their right to inspect returns on the act of 1877 alone, which you now declare unconstitutional. For the right they are demanding is one uniformly enjoyed by their predecessors from the formation of the government, and now, for the first time, is denied. The undersigned, therefore, cannot see how a right enjoyed in this state under the constitution and never hitherto withheld, could be affected by the constitutionality of the statute referred to. They are especially unable to see how the executive department of the government can set aside the plain, direct language of the statute. Your honorable board will permit the undersigned to remark that you enjoy the distinction of being the first governor and council who have directly assumed the duty of the judicial department of our government. You assume to set aside the plain provisions, as a flaw, now on the statute book. If your honorable board can do this in one case you can readily do it in others, and the execution of our entire body of laws is thus made to depend upon the opinion which your honorable board may have as to the constitutionality of several parts with the reserved right which you have endorsed in this case of changing your conclusion in the space of fourteen days. If this be the definite basis on which your honorable board proposes to execute the laws of the state it would be a merciful act to notify the people as to which law your honorable board regards as binding and which as inoperative, and especially as to which statutes are safe from change of construction beyond the period of fourteen days. All laws duly enacted are binding until repealed or set aside by judicial decision, and your honorable board is guilty, you will permit us to say, of a daring usurpation of power whenever you decide to disobey or annul or refuse to execute any law on the statute book. The [illegible] [illegible] the unprecedented [illegible] of rights, the [illegible] [illegible] matters herein submitted for your consideration.

It is understood the republican senators and representatives will now resort to judicial proceedings, and will make no further personal efforts with the government and council to procure access to returns.

The Trouble Increases.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 4.—Charles B. Rounds, county attorney for the county of Washington, has addressed a letter to the governor and council, referring to the refusal to allow an inspection of the returns. Rounds offers on behalf of the republican senators-elect from Washington county, if the board will open the subject for investigation, to prove that in case of the returns from the democratic towns for senators and representatives there have been changes made to supply defects discovered by surreptitious and unlawful [illegible] to the returns, and that they must involve in some form a collusion or connivance of persons connected with the state government, officers in the democratic towns, and a few others who have competent knowledge on which to testify.

Another View.

S. G. Parker, chairman of the committee to which was referred the protest of senators and representatives, reports to the governor and council that the said protest contains several important misstatements. The committee asserts that the answer given to the request for the examination of returns for senators and representatives from Androscoggin county, with the view to correcting the errors that might be found, was the following: That the council unanimously respond, that as at present advised, the constitution does not provide for such alterations. This was the only answer given them, and no statement like that quoted in the protest was made. The only request made by the gentlemen signing the protest, was the one above specified and the only answer given them was as before mentioned. The committee refer to the matter of bringing the subject of inspected returns before the court, and have no doubt, the views of the court upon any disputed point would have great weight with the executive department in the discharge of the duties now before it.

NEWS NOTES FROM ROSEBURG.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

ROSEBURG, Dec. 3, 1879.

School in the academy closed on the 28th ult.

The protracted meeting closed Sunday night, after a two weeks' siege.

Caro & Co., and S. B. Higley are moving into E. M. Moore's building this week.

Roseburg supports 9 saloons, 10 lawyers, 9 doctors, 6 drygoods stores and 3 schools.

The Philalathean literary society will give a public meeting at the court house Saturday evening next.

Several substantial buildings are talked of being ordered in early spring, and among those who propose building is Dr. Hoover; this building will be a two story brick, and built on the corner of his lot opposite Abraham's new brick.

The new city trustees are putting the money of the city on the streets, instead of in the safe, as the last board did. When the new board came into power there were over $800 in the treasury and many dilapidated sidewalks in the city.

It is asserted that J. J. Comstock will erect a grain warehouse and elevator in early spring, to supply a want for sometime felt in this section. Farmers will then save the freight on the foul portion of their grain, and retain the good name Southern Oregon has justly received for her quality of produce.

SO PREVALENT AND SO FATAL HAS CONSUMPTION become, that it is now everywhere dreaded as the scourge of humanity; and yet in their formative stages, all Pulmonary Complaints may be readily relieved and controlled by resorting promptly to Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, a curative specially adapted to soothe and strengthen the Bronchial tubes, allay inflammation, and loosen and remove all obstructions. It is a certain remedy for Asthma, and also for Coughs and Colds. Sold by Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, Oregon.

When the remains [illegible] Portland, Wednesday the sk[illegible] change hue the dark [illegible] appearance giving place to a white pity [illegible] seemingly strange occurrence was [illegible] by the relatives and friends [illegible] and elicited some comment Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock a bright color in [illegible] was noticed in both cheeks of the hitherto supposed dead woman. Great [illegible] much excitement and Dr Raffety was immediately summoned. He visited the house and examined the body After a thorough investigation Dr Raffety pronounced the woman dead The cause of the change of color from dark to light he states is due to capillary circulation after death He informed the sorrowing relatives and friends that in his judgment life had fled forever and there was no ground for hope To satisfy all that the woman is dead beyond a doubt Dr. Raffety suggested that the funeral be deferred until to-day Unless there are more conclusive indications that the vital spark has not flown the remains will be consigned to-day to their final resting place The report that it was a case of suspended animation, created much excitement in East Portland.

SUICIDE OF F MEYER —A marked copy of the Los Angeles (Cal Times dated November 27th, which contains a long account of the suicide of a German named F Meyer has been sent to this office The paper says "Meyer came to this place and registered at the hotel, claiming to come from San Francisco. In talking with different persons on Monday and Tuesday he said he was from Oregon, and formerly had been a saloon keeper in that state On Tuesday afternoon he paid his bill at the hotel and got a buggy at Hall's stable and took a ride After he came back he went over to Reuter Bros for a drink, and after procuring a bottle of liquor there he started towards Tustin City The last seen he was seen alive was just below Mr. Melady's place He told Reuter Bros that he had suffered terribly from the asthma and the further south he went the worse he got. Nothing was found on his person to identify him A memorandum book was found with him in which was the following inscription: 'Sul. Tiencken 118 Montgomery street.' It certainly was a well laid plot [illegible] to kill and bury himself at the same time as he had thrown his things into the well, sat down on the curbing and placing a pistol at his temple fired the fatal shot ex[illegible] no doubt to fall into the well immediately afterwards."

[illegible].—In the state circuit court yesterday afternoon, Russell Bennett was on his own plea convicted of the crime of [illegible], and was sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of five years. NORTHWESTERN TELEPHONE AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

Central Office Established on First Street —Its List of Officers Points of Advantage in the Blake Transmitter

The N[illegible] Telephone and Electric company [illegible] recently [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] has been [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] also be [illegible] An [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] been [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] TRANSMITTER

Referring to [illegible] [illegible] Blake [illegible] [illegible] says

It is somewhat remarkable that the friends and admirers of Mr Edison [illegible] take [illegible] to prove to the world that he still [illegible] of every electrical instrument and contrivance [illegible]

Notably does this the signal [illegible] with Mr Edison [illegible] [illegible] exception [illegible] the claim of Professor Hughes [illegible] totally of [illegible] [illegible] Mr Edison [illegible] [illegible] claim [illegible] the property possessed by some substances of any [illegible] power modified by pressure although even this [illegible] regarded as his exclusive property as it was discovered as early as 18[illegible] by the Count Du Moncel, and described by him in his Exposé des Applications de l'Electricité [illegible] used by M Clerac in 1865—not satisfied with this I repeat an attempt is now made to induce the public to believe that Mr Edison is also the inventor of the only really successful microphonic transmitter ever produced I allude to that invented by Mr Francis Blake of Newton Lower Falls Mass and described in your issue under the date of November 1st

Wherein the similarity between the Blake and the Edison transmitters lies it is difficult for one acquainted with both to say save in the fact that both are used in combination with an induction coil the secondary circuit of which is a part of the main line

I have examined Mr Prescott's account of Mr Edison's inertia telephone and find it totally different both in action and principle from any microphone

It appears however from the article in question that Mr Edison's last transmitter described also in the Scientific American a few weeks since is also like the old invention in principle If this is so a query why the Western Union Company did not bring out this superior instrument instead of the carbon telephone when the latter was beaten everywhere by the Blake transmitter The fact really is that the Western Union tried to imitate the Blake transmitter at different times since its introduction a year since and could never make the imitations work simply because the Blake transmitter has a few technical points on which its success depends and which are only known to the electricians of the National Bell Telephone Company

Mr Prescott states in his book and it is found to be true in practice that although many substances may be used as a conducting medium for varying resistance in the Edison transmitter lampblack is the best per contra lampblack is not used in the Blake transmitter at all the substance used being invariably very hard gas carbon besides which Mr Edison himself states in his patent 203 016 that unmixed carbon is not adapted for use in his transmitter

The article we have alluded to as in your last issue in its second paragraph states that there is nothing delicate or fine about the construction of the Blake transmitter In the third paragraph we find the words, this casting supports two delicate springs etc. One of the main features in this transmitter is the delicacy of the adjustment obtained by means of the casting which is perpendicularly across the inside of the diaphragm and the screw in its overend In conclusion, I desire to say that no cavilling spirit dictates these remarks but simply a desire for justice to the Blake transmitter, its inventor and perf[illegible]

FRIDAY MORNING DEC 1879

THE IRON PEN

(Made from a fetter of Bonnivard the prisoner of Chillon, the handle from wood of the frigate Constitution, and bound with a circlet of gold inset with three precious stones from Siberia, Ceylon and Maine.)

I thought this Pen would arise
From the casket where it lies—
Of itself would arise and write
My thanks and my surprise.

When you gave it me under the pines
I dreamed these gems from the mines
Of Siberia, Ceylon and Maine
Would glimmer as thoughts in the lines;

That this iron link from the chain
Of Bonnivard might retain
Some verse of the Poet who sang
Of the prisoner and his pain;

That this wood from the frigate's mast
Might write me a rhyme at last,
As it used to write on the sky
The song of the sea and the blast.

But motionless as I wait
Like a Bishop lying in state
Lies the Pen, with its mitre of gold,
And its jewels inviolate.

Then must I speak and say
That the light of that summer day
In the garden under the pines
Shall not fade and pass away.

I shall see you standing there
Caressed by the fragrant air,
With the shadow on your face
And the sunshine on your hair.

I hear the sweet low tone
Of a voice before unknown,
Saying, "This is from me to you—
From me, and to you alone."

And in words not idle and vain
I shall answer and thank you again
For the gift and the grace of the gift,
O beautiful Helen of Maine!

And forever this gift will be
As a blessing from you to me,
As a drop of the dew of your youth
On the leaves of an aged tree.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Report Denied

ST PETERSBURG Dec 3 —The statement relative to the probable appointment of Wolouieff as Gortschakoff's successor to the Russian chancellorship is contradicted in ministerial circles. It is pointed out that Gortschakoff has not yet tendered his resignation. Should he do so Privy Councellor Giers who actually conducts the foreign office during the greater part of the year is regarded as his most probable successor.

Prussian Railways

BERLIN Dec 3 —The government bill for the purchase of the Berlin and Stetten, the Magdeburg and Halberstadts, the Hanover and Altenbecken and Cologne and Minden railways having been submitted to the railway committee in the Prussian landtag for examination, that body appointed a sub committee to prepare and settle the conditions furnishing guarantees against any abuse of powers which the government would derive under the new measure. The sub committee do not recommend a concurrence with the railway committee, and do not think the measure is dependent on the government's introduction of the bill during the present session, or at latest during the next, they guaranteeing separate financial consideration for the railways so that the revenues therefrom shall be applied solely to meeting the charges on railway debts. The management and extensions the sub-committee also recommend, so that railway administration shall be assisted by the railway council to co-operate with the central railway administration vested in the ministry of public works and by the district railway councils to co operate with the managers of various railways. These recommendations have been accepted with slight modifications by the railway committee and will doubtless be adopted by the landtag.

Cordial Relations Undisturbed.

BERLIN Dec. 2 —It is asserted here that the German foreign office has issued a circular informing its diplomatic representatives abroad that the cordial relations between Germany and Russia are undisturbed.

New Canadian Minister.

LONDON Dec 3 —The Times this morning states that Sir A T Galt will be added to the Canadian cabinet as minister resident in London.

VIENNA Dec 3 —Mustar Pasha has arrived at Prisvend.

The Austrian Diet.

VIENNA, Dec 3 —The lower house of the Austrian diet continues the discussion of the army bill. Several well known constitutionalists and former leaders, including Prince Charles De Aurspurg, who, in 1868 was president of the Cisselthan ministry and M Schmeykal, have been forwarded.

Egyptian News.

LONDON, Dec 3 —A Vienna correspondent says a telegram from Alexandria states that the British and French consuls at the Island of Mausina have summoned King John of Abyssinia, to allow Gordon Pasha to return to Egypt without hindrance. It is reported that Prince Hassan son of the ex khedive has applied for a command in the expedition against Abyssinia.

The Queen's Illness.

NEW YORK Dec 3 —A special from London says: The illness of the queen mentioned in the dispatches yesterday, has not materially yielded to treatment. In connection with the symptoms which accompany an accute attack of biliousness her majesty is suffering from a severe sore throat which threatens serious results. Her majesty's physicians are said to regard her case as requiring the most careful and skillful attention, and have issued directions that no persons, except nurses and members of the royal household are to be admitted to her presence for the present.

Will not Resign.

BERLIN, Dec 3 —A correspondent says that Gortschakoff is determined not to resign voluntarily.

Sheep Importations.

LONDON Dec 4.—Hereafter sheep imported from the United States will be required to be slaughtered at the place of landing. The restriction is in consequence of the foot and mouth disease having been removed.

Fearful Explosion

LONDON Dec. 2 —The Chemnetz Saxony Tageblatt states that an explosion of fire damp occurred in a mine in that district last evening and it is feared from seventy to eighty persons have perished. The recovery of the corpses is actively proceeding.

The "Times" on the Message.

The Times, discussing the president's message says Canadians are no doubt tenacious of the rights of the dominion over their own coasts but they must feel the inconvenience of the renewal every ten years of concessions to U S fishermen. It is to be hoped it will be unnecessary and we should urge them to agree to a permanent settlement on equitable terms.

Bishop Imprisoned.

ROME, Dec 3 —Intelligence has been received here that the bishop of Massa, vicar apostolic over a portion of Abyssinia has been imprisoned by King John. The vatican has earnestly requested France and other governments, through the intermediacy of France, to use their influence to obtain his liberation. The pope will also send delegates to King John to intercede for the bishop's release.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Financial

THURSDAY EVENING Dec 4

The condition of trade is rather more quiet owing to the heavy rains which has somewhat retarded outdoor movements. Transactions in wheat and flour have been quite as much as ever controlled by the circumstances and wants of the parties thereto. A report reaches us that a San Francisco ring has taken up about all the tonnage on that market at 67s and that a very strong effort is being made to beat the grain market and in many cases they have compelled a reduction to $1 95. The report however may be exaggerated as our dispatches below give quotations [illegible] higher.

Oats in the local market are still dull except for choice milling lots which are inquired. Most receipts are slightly colored and command about 40c per bushel average. Mill feed is in good demand and selling at full rates. Flour is in good supply and slightly weaker. Some more cutting under has been carried on within the past week. Provisions moderately active and prices steady. Dairy products steady. Dried and ripe fruits are in good demand at improved prices. Eggs weaker at [illegible] a dozen. But little doing in wool, hides [illegible] higher. Other products quiet as quoted.

MARK LANE REPORT

The Usual Dull Market at the Close of the Year

LONDON Dec 4 —The Mark Lane Express review of the British grain trade for the past week says that in several districts autumn sowing is not completed and farmers must wait for a thaw. The time has now arrived when weather considerations exercise little influence on the grain trade. The wheat at country markets was pressed forward by farmers anxious to realize but its condition was not improved and its bad condition greatly restricted business. At Mark Lane but few parcels fit for milling were sold at reduced rates.

Foreign arrivals were again swelled by much Russian and business was naturally depressed thereby but the general situation is unchanged dullness being the usual characteristic of the close of the year.

Sales have been quite of a late character with little of any change in choices and holders have shown no desire to press sales. A few of the weaker speculators have begun to evince a desire to realize but merchants generally are still confident that with a cessation of Russian supplies and diminution of American in consequence of the closing of canals and increased demand for British for winter consumption the future should furnish little ground for anxiety.

Arrivals at ports of call have been small. Wheat was in steady demand and closing firmer. There was an improved demand for maize which advanced 3d per quarter. There was only a moderate business done in wheat or shipment in consequence of high prices asked. Maize was quiet. Barley was in limited request at previous currencies.

The sales of English wheat last week amounted to 38 580 qrs at 46s 7d per qr against 51 8[illegible] qrs at 41s 5d per qr for the same week last year.

Imports into the United Kingdom during the week ending November 22d were 1 614 [illegible] cwt of flour.
